THE BREAD & BUTTER PROJECT

WE MAKE DELICIOUS
ARTISAN BAKED GOODS.

WE PROVIDE OPPORTUNITY
FOR PEOPLE SEEKING REFUGE AND ASYLUM.

WE CREATE A POSITIVE
SOCIAL IMPACT IN THE COMMUNITY.

Our Story

Our journey began in 2013, after renowned Sydney chef and baker Paul Allam and his wife Jessica Grynberg, visited a group of refugee women at an orphanage on the Thai-Burmese border. Paul and Jessica taught the women how to bake bread, helping to establish a social business that supports the women and the orphanage to this day, and at the same time providing inspiration for The Bread & Butter Project.

On returning home, Paul shared his vision with his business partner in the legendary Bourke Street Bakery, celebrated pastry chef and baker David McGuinness, and together they acted on this inspiration by generously gifting what could have been a valuable wholesale business opportunity for them, plus their delicious recipes and many thousands of hours of support, to create The Bread & Butter Project. In the years since, The Bread & Butter Project has become a thriving, independently run social enterprise that helps refugees and people seeking asylum in Australia.

Our Product

We are proud to produce a wide range of quality artisan sourdough breads, specialty loaves, rolls, brioche and pastries that are the perfect combination of flavour, crust and crumb.

We bake loaves for you to eat and feel good about, and we thrive because of your love for bread and for humanity. Every slice of our delicious bread helps provide training and employment for people seeking refuge and asylum in Australia, in the process playing a valuable role in creating opportunity and alleviating poverty. With your help we are educating our next generation of bakers.
